IMF's Christine Lagarde says Argentina faces 'red card'

International Monetary Fund head Christine Lagarde has warned Argentina it could face sanctions unless it produces reliable growth and inflation data.

Ms Lagarde gave Argentina until 17 December to address the problem.

The IMF head said the fund had given Argentina a "yellow card" but it could face a red.

Private economists say annual inflation in Argentina is at 24%, much higher than the official 10% figure.

"We had to choose between the yellow card and the red card. We chose the yellow card. If no progress has been made, then the red card will be out," she said.

Speaking in Washington, Ms Lagarde said Argentina had been given three months to provide reliable estimates on growth and inflation.

IMF's Christine Lagarde says Argentina faces 'red card'

Christine Lagarde do FMI diz que a Argentina enfrenta um “cartão vermelho”

International Monetary Fund head Christine Lagarde has warned Argentina it could face sanctions unless it produces reliable growth and inflation data.

A chefe do FMI, Christine Lagarde, advertiu a Argentina que ela (Argentina) poderia enfrentar sanções a menos que ela produza dados confiáveis sobre crescimento e inflação.

Ms Lagarde gave Argentina until 17 December to address the problem.

A Senhora Lagarde deu à Argentina até 17 de dezembro para tratar o problema.

The IMF head said the fund had given Argentina a "yellow card" but it could face a red.

A chefe do FMI disse que o fundo deu à Argentina um “cartão amarelo”, mas a Argentina poderia enfrentar um vermelho.

Private economists say annual inflation in Argentina is at 24%, much higher than the official 10% figure.

Economistas privados dizem que a inflação anual na Argentina está em 24%, muito mais alto do que os dados oficiais de 10%.

"We had to choose between the yellow card and the red card. We chose the yellow card. If no progress has been made, then the red card will be out," she said.

“Nós tínhamos que escolher entre o cartão amarelo e o cartão vermelho. Nós escolhemos o cartão amarelo. Se nenhum progresso tiver sido feito, então o vermelho será dado”, ela disse.

Speaking in Washington, Ms Lagarde said Argentina had been given three months to provide reliable estimates on growth and inflation.

Falando em Wahington, a Senhora Lagarde disse que a Argentina tinha sido dado à Argentina três meses para prover estimativas confiáveis sobre crescimento e inflação.
