

TEXTO

Two aeroplanes collide at Jakarta airport

Two planes collided at an airport in Indonesia's capital Jakarta, resulting in a wing bursting into flames.

A Batik Air passenger plane was taking off when its wing clipped the tail of a TransNusa aircraft being towed across the runway.

Authorities said there were no injuries in the Monday night incident, and all passengers were evacuated safely.

Indonesia has had a dismal air safety record amid a boom in air travel, particularly with budget carriers.

Fonte: BBC - 05/04/2016

TEXTO – TRADUÇÃO LIVRE

Two aeroplanes collide at Jakarta airport

Dois aviões colidem no aeroporto de Jakarta

Two planes collided at an airport in Indonesia's capital Jakarta, resulting in a wing bursting into flames.

Dois aviões colidem em um aeroporto na Indonésia na capital Jakarta, resultando em uma asa explodindo em chamas.

A Batik Air passenger plane was taking off when its wing clipped the tail of a TransNusa aircraft being towed across the runway.

Um avião de passageiros da Batik Air estava decolando quando sua asa cortou a cauda de um avião da TransNusa que foi rebocada por toda a pista.

Take off = decolar.

Authorities said there were no injuries in the Monday night incident, and all passengers were evacuated safely.

Autoridades disseram que não houve feridos no incidente de segunda-feira à noite, e todos os passageiros foram evacuados com segurança.

Indonesia has had a dismal air safety record amid a boom in air travel, particularly with budget carriers.

A Indonésia tem um sombrio recorde de segurança aérea em meio a um aumento nas viagens aéreas, particularmente com transportadoras de baixo custo.

Budget airlines = companhias aéreas de baixo custo.